

Timothy Wittman

Software Engineer IV

HELLO -

My name is Timothy, and I'm an Iowa native with a strong work ethic and passion for family. I enjoy camping, running and any board sport. In my early career as an Engineer, I have proven to be valuable, reliable, caring and enjoyable to work with.

At Eagle Point Software, I engineer software solutions for an E-Learning SAAS product labeled Pinnacle Series. This platform provides personalized learning opportunities to over 120,000 users, with a hub to capture and share Autodesk related content. I have shown the ability to own projects from design to deployment.

As I create full-stack software solutions, I must perform debugging, testing and troubleshooting tasks to ensure product reliability. I'm currently introducing agile methodologies amongst team members and engineering new features. I've proven to specialize in communicating, explaining and implementing technical business solutions.

My experience at Hy-Vee includes engineering and testing software solutions as part of an Agile team. My Agile related work included creating stories, planning/pointing, leading retrospectives and analyzing backlog items with the Product Owner. I provided off-hours on-call support as needed, was known to be accountable, hard working and reported timely.

WARMEST REGARDS,

Timothy G. Wittman
